

THE LEDGER.

THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1893.

It would seem a very easy thing for the authorities to take the new bottle trust by the neck and "smash" it.

This is the month when the votaries of Hymen make their offerings, and the gentlemen of the cloth who add to their perquisites by tying the connubial knot are reaping a harvest.

The St. Charles News editorially says: "What is the matter with giving Champ Clark two terms? He has not been in his seat yet and he should not be ousted before he has had an opportunity to show the mettle that's in him."

Two Colorado men waged a war to their respective abilities to consume morphine. The vanquished is dead, and the stakes will not compensate the doctors who rashly brought the victor back from the edge of the grave. People of a speculative turn of mind would do well to seek other channels for investment.

ANXIETY to secure the fight between Corbett and Mitchell does not seem anything akin to absolute fervor. The arrangement that suggests itself as a compromise, and as perfectly safe, is to have Mitchell fight in England and Corbett fight in America, admiring friends contributing toward the payment of cable pools.

S. P. STOWERS, son of W. A. Stowers, of Audrain county, is very prominently mentioned for the Surveyorship of the Port of Kansas City. Mr. Stowers is a prominent commission merchant of Kansas City and stands high in the Democratic party and, in fact, with all who have his acquaintance. His many friends in Audrain county will rejoice at his success.

The closing exercises of the M. M. A. were held this week under most favorable circumstances and were largely attended. This institution is one of the most popular of the kind in the whole country and deservedly so. The prospect for a largely increased attendance next year is good and we are sure that the better the school is known throughout the country the better it will be liked.

The County Court has made some much needed improvements in the Court House which are appreciated by the tax payers throughout the entire county. If the court will now make arrangements to heat the Court House with a furnace and put granite walks and water in the yard Audrain county will have one of the handsomest pieces of county property owned anywhere in the state.

PROF. W. M. TRELOAR has been re-employed by Hardin College, the Missouri Military Academy and the Mexico Public Schools for the ensuing year. Prof. Treloar is one of the most successful and popular music teachers in Missouri and the interest taken in music by the people of Mexico is due to a large extent to Prof. Treloar's labors in our midst. His orchestra, his choir, his entertainments, and his every day teaching prove that he is thorough in every sense of the word.

THE HIAWATHA (Kansas) World, in speaking of the standing the Missouri Press Association has in the National Editorial Association, very kindly remarks:

Missouri has done much to make the National Editorial Association, the grand society that it is, and in R. M. White, of the Mexico Ledger, the Missouri newspaper folks have the most unselfish, loyal and intense of friends and workers. Mr. White ought to succeed Secretary Page, of the National Association, if that worthy officer has a successor.

It is the laboring classes who do most to keep the money of the country in active circulation and when they begin to tighten the purse strings the effect is immediately apparent in a stringency of the money market. Thousands of them all over the country are now economizing and hoarding their earnings with a view to seeing the World's Fair, and people are made to realize how dependent they are upon these classes, not only for the production of wealth, but the supplying of ready money for the regular channels of trade.

PIKE COLLEGE and the Bowling Green Normal School and Business College is situated at Bowling Green, Mo., one of the nicest, healthiest and most moral towns in northeast Missouri. Under the management of President Long it has become one of the leading institutions of learning in the state. The prospects now for this institution is brighter than that of any school in the state, and will open in September under very favorable circumstances. New departments have just been added and the school becomes a departmental college. Such arrangements have been made that a student may take any study in the whole range of language, literature, science, art, business, etc., which is a happy departure from the old line of schools, and meets the demand of this age of push and progress. The school has a faculty of sixteen instructors, all of whom are men and women of successful experience in teaching and stand among the leaders of education in Missouri. We take pleasure in commending this school to the young men, ladies and teachers of Audrain county.

The St. Louis Republic, in a column article headed, "Is office seeking a disgrace?" endorses the position taken in reference to this matter by Hon. Champ Clark, member of Congress from this district, as follows: "The Republic is very glad to see that Hon. Champ Clark is not disposed to attempt to bring his Democratic constituents into public contempt because one in every thousand of them is an applicant for office. Congressman Clark says that he worried them a good deal (and so he did) when he wanted an office, and that now when he has secured it, it is only fair that they should worry him."

This is the correct view—the only correct view. Nothing is more disgusting than to see a professional office-seeker, a man who has been running for office persistently for the last 20 years; who has made every dollar he has in the world out of the opportunities office gave him; who without office and until he got it was hard put to earn as much as $2,000 a year; who when he wanted office went out and pulled wires and hustled and drank beer with the boys and shook hands with everybody and smiled and smiled, and wrote bushels of letters and did everything possible to get the little office he was running for so as to make it a stepping stone to a bigger one—nothing is more disgusting, we say, than to see such a man when he has already got into the last office he is ever likely to hold, turning round on applicants for minor positions and treating them as if they were utterly contemptible. This is what has disgusted us with Carter Harrison, and we propose to treat disgusted with him until he mends his ways and opens the doors of the Mayor's office of Chicago for the transaction of all public business, including the highly important public business of filling the offices with respectable, honest, competent Democrats.

The Rocheport Commercial, in presenting the name of Hon. Ben Anderson, well known in Mexico as a sterling Democrat and a genial gentleman, for the Legislature from Boone county, very truly says: "For representative of Boone county in 1894, Ben M. Anderson, the democratic wheel-horse of Central Missouri, and a man more worthy of the honors than any other political leader in the county. Ben Anderson has the push and vim to represent Boone county in the halls of legislation with better success and satisfaction than any other man. He has the ability and the determination about him which will make him a leader, an honor to the democracy of Missouri and a pride to his constituents. Much important work must be accomplished at the next session of our Legislature, and the democracy should be choosing their representatives thus early and have them in perfect trim when the proper time shall come."

The Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, of Chicago, has done more to calm the troubled waters in financial circles than any other institution in the country. A run was started on this bank this week and the President, Wm. Mitchell, a brother of Capt. L. C. Mitchell, father-in-law of R. M. White and well known in Missouri, displayed a card to the depositors late in the evening stating that the "bank would be open all night to pay those who wanted their money." The bank kept its doors open till 2:30 a. m. paying all who called. The next morning it opened two hours earlier than usual and in a few minutes the run was over and confidence restored. This bank is one of the strongest in the United States and has more than eight millions of dollars out on call loans which can be realized on in twenty-four hours.

The Progressive Bee Keeper, published at Higginsville, Mo., contains a splendid picture of J. W. Rouse, of this city, and also a four column sketch of this gentleman, who is one of the most prominent bee men in the country. The same issue contained a splendid article by Mr. Rouse on Bee Keeping, and we are sorry we have not the room to publish the same in full, as it would prove of great interest to those of our readers who raise bees.

The College commencement edition of the Columbia Herald was one of the handsomest and most complete publications of its kind we have seen this year. It showed careful work by those who had charge of the editorial, local and typographical departments of the paper.

ED. CARUTHERS is now editor of the Kenneth (Dunklin Co., Mo.) Clipper. Ed. is one of Missouri's brightest journalists and a thorough Democrat and will make the Clipper one of the most influential journals in the state.

The St. Louis Republic's Washington correspondent, in an extended article on "Well-to-do Pensioners," says of an ex-Governor of Missouri: "Ex-Governor T. T. Crittenden, of Missouri, who is supposed to be a man enjoying perfect health and in possession of all the faculties and of reasonable wealth, and who has recently been appointed Consul General of the United States to Mexico, is drawing $32 a month by virtue of an oath sworn to by him of total disability to earn his living."

W. A. Latimer of Hannibal, Mo., has been appointed a Bank Examiner.

WHO IS EULALIA?

She and Her Husband Are Cousins, and Are Both Infants of Spain.

The Infanta Eulalia and her husband, the Infante Antonio, are first cousins. They are also first cousins to the Comte de Paris, head of the French house of Bourbons. To go back to that junction in the French and Spanish Bourbons from which they sprang, Louis Philippe of France has among his children a son, who was the Duc de Montpensier. He married the Infanta Louisa of Spain, a daughter of Ferdinand VII by his fourth wife, Cristina, Princess of the Two Sicilies. Queen Isabella was Louisa's sister. Isabella's daughter Eulalia married Louisa's son Antonio.

Isabella had another child who became Alfonso XII, and his son is the present King and nephew of Eulalia. The Infanta's husband, Antonio is uncle-in-law to the King of Spain, and the King is also Antonio's first cousin once removed. The married couple are infants of Spain. The title Infanta for the female and Infante for the male go to the children of Spanish and Portuguese Kings. Eulalia is the daughter of Queen Isabella, and Antonio is the son of the son of one King and the son of the daughter of another.

Frank James's Surrender. Col. Lou V. Stephens tells the following story in the Booneville Advertiser in his Jefferson City correspondence:

A gentleman who witnessed the surrender of Frank James to Gov. Crittenden tells that notable event in the history of Missouri. On the forenoon of the day of the surrender, Gov. Crittenden sent invitations to all the state officers and their employes to visit his office at five o'clock. Not the slightest information was given of what the occasion was to be. No one knew, but the most popular theory was that some one had sent the Governor a basket of champagne, and that he desired to share it with his friends. Perhaps the wish was father to the thought. The company invited responded promptly, and at the appointed hour the room was full of visitors; still no one knew nor had the slightest idea of what it all meant. It certainly did not mean wine, for none of the accessories of such an occasion were to be seen. After waiting in a state of complete mystification for more than half an hour Maj. John N. Edwards, with a stranger on his arm, entered the room. The two proceeded directly to the Governor. Maj. Edwards, in a low tone of voice, introduced Frank James. They were not heard, and were supposed to be merely friends who had come to pay their respects to the chief executive of the State. Just at that moment, while all was bewilderment, Frank James took off his pistol and handed it to the Governor, remarking: "You, sir, are the first man who ever held his hand on this pistol since the beginning of the war." The Governor accepted it in his polite, graceful manner, and then turning to the crowd, said: "Gentlemen, this is Frank James." We then realized that it was a surrender. Frank was at once the hero of the occasion. He is a tall, slim man, delicate and not rugged looking; no appearance of the highwayman about him. During the ordeal he was perfectly calm and as composed as any man in the room. He shook hands with and had a pleasant word for everybody. It was generally believed in Jefferson City that every member of what was called the "James gang" had recorded a vow and made a solemn pledge that Jesse James' death should be avenged by the death of Gov. Crittenden. It had been claimed that upon one occasion the opportunity presented itself, and that one of the James followers was behind the Governor, within easy range, with his hand on his pistol, and would have fulfilled there and then the recorded vow, but for a timely gesture from Frank James.

Baird Bank Robbery. BENTONVILLE, Ark., June 5.—The People's bank of this city was robbed of over $10,000 to-day at 2:30 p. m. by a gang of six desperadoes armed with Winchester. The outlaws were from the Territory and came into town, four upon white horses and two in a new top buggy. The other five went single file one-half block north to the People's bank where three entered and covered the bank officials with Winchester. One of the two made Cashier McAndrew dump the contents of the safe into sacks. After securing the money they made the officials march in front of them as they started for their horses, forcing Mr. Jackson to carry the sack of silver containing over $10,000.

Burglars at Baird College. CLINTON, Mo., June 3.—An attempt was made last night to crack the safe of Baird College. The burglars succeeded in breaking the hinges from the door, but were doubtless scared away before they had succeeded in drilling a hole to insert the powder. The damage was slight.

Rooms Pled in Chicago. LEAVENWORTH, Kas., June 6.—A porter at the Delmonico Hotel sent three lines to the Chicago Herald asking for a room. The "ad" appeared in the Sunday Herald. To-day 473 letters by way of responses are tacked up in the rooms of the Delmonico with another basketful to be opened.

R. W. Tureman was down from Kansas City to-day.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—The public debt statement issued to-day shows that there was a net decrease of $739,425.99 during the month of May. Of this $657,175.50 was in the amount of the bonded indebtedness of the Government and $82,250.49 was in the increase of the cash in the Treasury. The interest bearing debt increased $300; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity decreased $37,480 and of the debt bearing no interest $619,695.50. The aggregate interest and non-interest bearing debt May 31 was $961,750,888.63; on April 30 it was $962,407,764.13. The certificates and Treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the Treasury out-standing at the end of the month was $594,531,021, an increase of $1,485,604.

The total cash in the Treasury was $754,122,984.48, the gold reserve $95,048,640 and the net cash balance $26,516,514.30.

In the month there was a decrease of $5,764,749.32 in the gold coin and bars, the total at the close being $106,518,609.76. Of silver there was an increase of $5,174,874.48. Of the surplus there was in national bank deposits $11,619,142.54, against $11,270,636.69 at the end of the previous month.

FROM THE ROBBER'S HOME.

What the Father Says About His Wayward Son.

LEBANON, Mo., June 3.—Wilson was captured at the home of his father two miles east of this city at a few minutes after 8 o'clock last evening. He was brought to this city and lodged in jail, where $135 in currency and $472 in silver coin were found in his possession. The two revolvers with which he intimidated the crew were mere toys and cost less than $5. Sheriff Jones bought these weapons from a young brother of the robber and will keep them as souvenirs of the exploit.

Wilson says that he was rendered desperate by his failure to secure employment as a telegraph operator and was determined to obtain $1,000 with which to make his father safe on the $1,000 bond given by the latter for his appearance at Waynesville at the next term of court to answer to an indictment for felonious assault and then skip the country.

The money the father refused to receive, and it was through his influence that Sam consented to surrender to Sheriff Jones.

He had been at work at Lemp's Brewery in St. Louis for two weeks before the robbery. He had lost his place there and decided to hold up the train, make a big haul and leave the country. With his last few dollars he bought two cheap derringers and some dynamite at Meacham's on the day of the robbery. Putting these in his valise he left St. Louis during the afternoon of May 24, caught a freight train and beat his way out to Pacific. With a handkerchief over his face and goggles in hand he went forth and held up the train. After the robbery he concealed himself in haystacks during daylight and traveled every night, keeping close to the railroad track. He stopped at a number of farmhouses and got something to eat. On Wednesday last, a week after the robbery, he arrived at Rolla and got dinner there. The next day he was at Hancock and walked into a store and bought a suit of clothes. The merchants recognized him and knew that he was the man for whom the detectives were searching. The alarm was given, but too late—the robber had flown. It was here that the officers first heard of him for certain, and other detectives were started out from St. Louis.

The lone robber with the sack of money on his back continued his weary journey, arriving at his father's place near this city about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, where the train robber was turned over to Sheriff Jones, brought to Lebanon and locked up. His wife, a pale-faced, careworn woman, came in with him and spent the night at the jail.

Losing his valise at the scene of the robbery was the fatal tell-tale mistake, giving the only clue to a most remarkable robbery. Wilson fully realized this and lost all hopes of escape.

JEWELL MAKES RAIDS.

The Rock Island's Expert Begins Operations at Meade Center, Kas.

TOPEKA, Kas., June 6.—C. B. Jewell, the Rock Island's rain-maker, began operations at Meade Center at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He claims to have discovered the secret of Melbourne's plan of rain-making, and has added various important improvements to it. His apparatus sent gas into the clouds sky for six hours when clouds began to appear, which at 10:30 o'clock last night had collected together and began to discharge rain. The rain continued falling until daylight this morning. The fact that rain followed Jewell's operations is encouraging to the railway company, and he will continue his operations at Meade Center for several days.

Hopkins & Ricketts have sold the L. Phillips residence property on south Jefferson street to C. A. Bast, of Montgomery county, for $10,500. Mr. Bast is a gentleman of large means, public spirited, and we are glad to welcome him and his family to the business and social circles of Mexico. Mr. Phillips will probably erect a new residence this summer.

Edwin Booth, America's greatest tragedian, died in New York Tuesday night of this week.

STOPPED IN HIS CRAZY CAREER.

William Ellis, of Marshall, After Assaulting His Mother, Is Shot Down.

MARSHALL, Mo., June 2.—During an altercation yesterday evening between William Ellis and Charles Leaton, near Naptown's bridge, southwest of this city, the former was shot and seriously wounded by the latter. Ellis, who is supposed to be temporarily insane, had, that evening a short time before the shooting, made an assault on his mother, kicking and striking her several times, and then assaulted his sister, Mrs. Holden, striking her with a shotgun and threatening to kill her for attempting to interfere.

He then took the shot-gun and two pistols and struck out on horseback in search of Ed. Holden, his brother-in-law, whom he wanted to kill on general principles. He met Charles Leaton on the road and began an altercation with him, during which he snapped his shot-gun twice at Leaton. The latter had a shot-gun and fired two loads at Ellis, the second load taking effect in his breast and arm. Ellis fired three or four pistol shots at Leaton but none took effect.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER.

An Early Survey of the Democratic Field.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—It is a little bit early for Presidential talk since the national conventions are three years and a half ahead, but as ex-Vice President Morton's boom is assuming very interesting proportions; as ex-Congress General New has announced that Mr. Harrison would make a very strong race, and as Mr. Clarkson is looking around for some verile young Republican who believes in the single standard of female suffrage, the Democrats are doing a little bit of looking around also.

It is by no means an uncommon thing to hear in the departments and other political places lengthy discussions of the next standard bearer of the party, and it is a very frequent assertion that at least two members of the Cabinet have their eyes fixed upon the honor, while two others are in training for second place. They are Secretaries Gresham and Carlisle and Secretaries Morton and Smith. Some of the Georgia papers have already named the highest honor within the gift of the people, and many of the Western journals stand committed to the cause of the Secretary of Agriculture. Other opinion molders in that section are talking in favor of Mr. Gresham, and what is true of the Southern and Western papers is true of the Southern and Western politicians.

Mr. Carlisle has been very frequently mentioned in connection with both the Presidency and Vice Presidency. In the meantime substantial and solid talk regarding the Presidency is linked with the name of Wm. B. Morrison. The Western and Southern Democrats insist that the next candidate of the Democratic party must come from the West, and without hesitation they name Morrison as the Western man best fitted by ability and experience to be named for the highest honor within the gift of the American people.

Sale of Lots in Vandalia.

Mr. Geo. H. Uterback will sell at public sale on the ground in Vandalia, Mo., Saturday, June 17, 1893, at 2 p. m., sixty town lots, 60x120 feet, all laid off with streets and alleys, in the eastern edge of the beautiful and growing town of Vandalia. This is a rare opportunity for investors and home seekers. Now is your time to secure lots in a growing town.

The Fourth of July.

The committee of arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration has secured the Fair Grounds for the big event and also made arrangements with all of the livery stables to transport people to and from the grounds at half the usual rate—25 cents for the round trip. A committee, consisting of J. E. Martin, A. K. Luckie and Fred Morris, was appointed to perfect arrangements in regard to the wheelmen's races. This will be the big feature. All committees are requested to meet at the City Hall Saturday evening, June 10th, at 7:30 to arrange the programme and attend to other matters to come before them. Let every member of all committees be present promptly on time.

Mrs. Dr. Walker is going to erect an elegant new residence on the grounds used as a tennis court.

ROBBERS AT ROCHEPORT.

A Successful Raid Followed by the Arrest of Some of the Raiders.

ROCHEPORT, Mo., June 6.—Hubbell's dry goods store and White & Grossman's saloon were burglarized Sunday night. Five kegs of beer, 50 bottles of liquor, 4,000 cigars and $15 in money were taken from the saloon. The amount of clothing and dry goods taken from Hubbell's is not yet known. Marshall Grassman made a raid on a house this afternoon at which two strangers had been stopping and found a full set of burglar's tools, two large-sized Smith & Wesson revolvers, two belts filled with cartridges, one keg of powder, five sticks of dynamite and several yards of fuse. He also recovered about one-half of the stolen liquor and cigars. Joe Potter, who occupied the building, has been placed under arrest. He has furnished information implicating five other men. Frank Huffman, of Cooper County, who is thought to be the leader of the gang, is also under arrest. The citizens are now in pursuit of other parties whose arrest will be made before morning. The men implicated are evidently desperate criminals and were planning to rob the Rocheport Bank and the safes of the business houses. One of the pals had been sent to Columbia, where the next raid was to be made.

No trace of the thief who stole Capt. Fisher's horse on Monday has been found.

ADMINISTRATOR'S PUBLIC SALE

On Tuesday, June 13, 1893.

As Public Administrator I will sell at public sale, on the farm lately occupied by Gideon J.
